Strategy calls for 6-cent levy increase, funds from four estates, other local sources and tuition payments from school districts to match $650,000 being held by state for project.

The State Fair Community College Board of Trustees took a major step Monday night toward securing $650,000 in state funds for the construction of a $1.3 million vocational-technical building on the campus.

The board unanimously approved a plan to use funds from four estates, several local sources and tuition payments from school districts participating in the vo-tech program to match the $650,000 being held by the Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education for the project.

Approximately $100,000 of the funds expected from local sources will be generated by a six-cent operating levy increase, SFCC President Fred Davis said.

The proposed increase will not require approval by SFCC district voters, Davis said, because the college decreased its operating levy by six cents last year, and the assessed valuation of property in Pettis County has increased.

The proposed tax levy increase would bring SFCC's operating levy to 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation, the maximum allowable without a vote.

Davis said he will meet Friday with Harold Lynch, director of area vocational schools with the State Department of Education, to further discuss financing the proposed facility.

"We are going to tell him we are ready to commit ourselves to a $1,300,000 contract," Davis said, provided the matching funds can be obtained.

To secure those funds, the board approved the use of $100,000 from the Elizabeth Yeater estate, $100,000 from the McCormick, Renfrow and Shaw estates, $300,000 from local sources and $150,000 from participating school districts.

The $300,000 in local funds would come from the following sources: $100,000 from the proposed tax levy increase, $100,000 from various fund-raising activities at the college and $100,000 from indirect costs in various ongoing SFCC programs that can be applied to a building program.

The vo-tech program currently is housed in a number of temporary buildings on the campus, and in space rented at the Parkhurst Building on North Highway 65.

The nine participating school districts in Pettis and Benton Counties pay tuition (seat-cost payments) to cover the rental cost of the temporary facilities. Under the plan approved Monday night, they would continue to pay the same fees over a 10-year period, although the rented space no longer would be used.

Davis said that will generate an additional $150,000 for the new building, and added that the school superintendents have voiced their approval of the plan.

If the funding plan is approved by the State Department of Education, construction is expected to begin by June 1 and tentatively will be completed in the fall of 1978, Davis said.

The building, if approved, will be located northeast of the Charles E. Yeater Learning Center, behind the auto-tech building.

"We've had money in the state budget for the vo-tech building for four years," Davis said. "We're definitely sure this is

Evaluation of college distributed

"It is the unanimous recommendation of the visiting team that State Fair Community College be granted full membership in the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools. The team further unanimously recommends that the next examination be scheduled in five years."

So concludes a report filed by the four-member North Central evaluation team that inspected the college's facilities, instructional departments, personnel and other areas for 2½ days last November.

Full NCA accreditation has been sought by SFCC ever since it opened its doors in 1968. It guarantees that credits from the college will be transferable to any other college in the nation, and is considered as evidence that an institution of higher learning "has arrived," academically speaking.

The 22-page document, distributed to board members and reporters Monday night, outlines SFCC's administrative structure and educational services, and enumerates strengths and "concerns" of the college.

Among the strengths: "Institutional goals and purposes are well defined and understood. The teaching and counseling faculties are well qualified, dedicated, enthusiastic and student oriented. The learning resources center meets the needs of the students and the faculty."

And the concerns: "Consideration should be given to plans for future maintenance of programs now funded through federal sources. The comprehensive salary and fringe benefit program for faculty and other employees should be improved as funds permit."

The recommendation for full accreditation will be subject to a review in April by a 12-to-15-member North Central review panel. In most instances, it was reported, the review panel affirms the original recommendation. The review panel's decision, in turn, is subject to a final vote in August.

SFCC President Fred Davis and William Hopkins, chairman of the board of trustees, will appear before the North Central Review Committee next April to answer any questions that may arise concerning not only the evaluation team's report, but also the college self-study completed by the SFCC staff last year.

Cuba taking active role in Rhodesia

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — Black Rhodesian nationalist sources said today that Cuban advisers are training guerrillas for the war against Rhodesia's white minority regime.

The report came amid talk of an impending racial bloodbath in Rhodesia because of Prime Minister Ian Smith's rejection Monday of British proposals for a peaceful transition to black rule there.

Smith said the proposals would have led to an immediate surrender of power to "Marxist-indoctrinated" black nationalists.

The sources said the Cubans, apparently from nearby Angola, are training fighters of the Zimbabwe People's Army — ZIPA — the military arm of the Patriotic Front led by Rhodesian black nationalists Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe. Zimbabwe is the black nationalists' name for Rhodesia.

An estimated 12,000 to 15,000 Cuban troops remained in Angola after helping a Marxist-oriented nationalist group seize power there last year.

In recent months, Rhodesian government officials have expressed fears that these Cuban forces might enter the four-year-old Rhodesian conflict in some way. Mozambique, which also has Marxist government, is the primary base for guerrilla operations against Rhodesia.

The government-owned Zambia Daily Mail said in an editorial today that Smith's rejection of the British peace plan "means a bloody racial war in southern Africa that will certainly unleash a seething cauldron of ... racial hate."

The Zambian government of President Kenneth Kaunda has provided support for the Rhodesian guerrillas and is one of five so-called "frontline" black African countries trying to oust the white regime in Salisbury.

In London, Foreign Minister Anthony Crosland of Britain offered Monday to fly to Rhodesia, a breakaway British colony, if his trip would help revive peace talks.

Carter asks fast action on gas problem, rebates

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter told Democratic congressional leaders today that his is "the best way" to perk up the economy, and asked them to act swiftly on his package of tax rebates and limited public works spending.

He sought early action, too, on his request for authority to reorganize federal agencies subject to congressional veto.

And he asked for emergency legislation to cope with what he called "a very serious problem with natural gas."

Rep. John Brademas of Indiana, the House whip, gave that outline of Carter's first White House meeting with the leaders of Congress, and said he had promised "to meet Congress more than half way" in the quest for action on his programs.

At the same time, Carter heard complaints from two of them that they should have been consulted sooner on the natural gas measure.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia said he and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill asked the President to include them in preliminary discussions on future issues.

Byrd said that as far as he knew, Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, chairman of a commerce subcommittee, was the only member of Congress consulted while the bill was being developed.

Brademas said Carter asked for congressional action to permit emergency sales of natural gas and to provide for some mingling of interstate and intrastate natural gas sales. The latter category is not subject to price controls.

While Brademas did not spell out details, the administration has been discussing a temporary waiver of controls to allow permit gas suppliers to buy what they need at prices set by the marketplace during the current emergency.

Brademas said the President also asked for swift action on his economic package of up to $31 billion in tax cuts and jobs programs over the next two years.

He said Carter also told the leaders:

— He expects to submit a comprehensive energy program to Congress by April 20.

— The administration will have a comprehensive welfare reform plan by May 1.

Carter also took the occasion to defend his economic package, criticized by organized labor as inadequate to pep up the economy.

The President said his package is adequate. "The tax rebate the first year is the best way because it's the fastest way to stimulate consumer purchasing power, and then we can act on public works," Brademas quoted him as saying.

The rebates will extend to upper-income taxpayers, but he said it isn't certain that it would be $50 at all levels. Lance made clear that Carter has decided to go for the upper limits of the economic stimulus program he announced in December. He said the total cost of the program, including tax changes and jobs projects, would be about $15.8 billion in 1977 and $15.5 billion in 1978, a total of more than $31 billion.

Lance said there is no way of calculating precisely at this point how much each taxpayer would actually receive.

He said he hopes at least some parts of the tax package, if not all, will clear Congress "and be in place by April," but he said he can't now predict when the payments actually would be in the mail.

$50 for each person proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration hopes to provide a $50 cash payment for each American, including those who are too poor to pay taxes, President Carter's budget director, Bert Lance, said today.

Lance said the payment would be in the form of a $50 tax rebate for each exemption claimed by a taxpayer. There also would be a cash payment for persons receiving Social Security benefits and for low-income persons who don't pay taxes.

The total payments this year would be about $11 billion, he said. Congress would first have to approve the program, which still isn't complete in every detail, Lance told a news briefing.

He also disclosed that President Carter has decided to propose additional help for business by providing an option between a 2 per cent increase in the investment tax credit — to a total of 12 per cent — or a tax deduction equal to 4 per cent of employee Social Security taxes.

Lance said it isn't certain that every American will receive exactly a $50 rebate, but indicated that this is the goal for the moment. He also said it might be too costly from an administrative standpoint to try to provide a cash payment for all low-income persons.

"We will try to reach all we can; unfortunately there may be some we can't reach," he said.

Carter earlier had disclosed he would ask Congress to propose between $7 billion and $11 billion in tax rebates to stimulate the economy this year.

Lance said the rebates for taxpayers would be equal to about $50 per exemp-

65,000 workers strike

Spanish protest deaths

MADRID, Spain (AP) — More than 65,000 workers went on strike in Madrid and Barcelona today to protest the machine-gun killing of four leftists by gunmen believed to be rightist extremists.

Premier Adolfo Suarez met with top members of his cabinet to discuss the violence that has taken six lives in two days and the country's second political kidnapping in six weeks.

Police questioned right-wing extremists in their hunt for two gunmen who burst into leftist labor lawyer Francisco Javier Sauquillo's office in Madrid Monday night and opened fire on a meeting of lawyers who handle cases for the outlawed Communist-led trade unions.

Three persons were killed, Sauquillo died several hours later, and five others were wounded.

Protest strikes erupted at a dozen Madrid industrial plants, idling more than 35,000 workers. Among those on strike were 50 employees at the hospital in which four of the wounded were being treated.

Some 30,000 workers at the Barcelona SEAT plant, Spain's largest automaker, also went on strike to protest the attack on the lawyer's office.

Meetings to be closed

Teasdale plan attacked

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A member of the Missouri Public Service Commission has criticized Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale's plan to hold closed meetings with individual commission members Wednesday.

Former commission chairman A. Robert Pierce wrote the governor a letter released today, saying Teasdale's plan to hold the private sessions "is a step backward from the high standards of 'open government, openly administered' as set by the Missouri Public Service Commission."

Teasdale, a Democrat, won office in an upset over Christopher S. Bond. His major campaign theme centered on criticism of the commission, which regulates utility rates in Missouri. He has said he would call for the resignations of four of the five commissioners.

Pierce urged Teasdale to open the meetings, as has been requested by a number of news organizations.

"Such a meeting would be in keeping with the openness of the Missouri Public Service Commission during my tenure as chairman," Pierce wrote.

In his reply to Pierce, Teasdale wrote that he merely wanted to "informally discuss with you for about five minutes the matter which is now well publicized relating to my campaign theme—that the public is disenchanted with the Public Service Commission's granting of utility rate increases."

"If there is a future time for confrontation or debate or exchange of views between the commission as a body and myself then certainly I will be happy to conduct such a meeting in the open," Teasdale wrote.

Jail escape charges to be filed today

WARSAW — Felony charges of escaping jail were expected to be filed in Benton County Magistrate Court here Tuesday afternoon against Jack E. Judd, 26, Independence, according to a spokesman for the Benton County sheriff's department.

Judd, who was arrested Saturday on felony charges of carrying a concealed weapon, dug his way out of the 135-year-old Benton County jail early Tuesday morning. However, his freedom was short-lived.

Officers said a deputy and his wife who live over the jail heard strange noises Sunday night. It was finally determined that someone was trying to dig out of the jail.

The digging resumed Monday night. Shortly after 1 a.m. Tuesday a few bricks were removed from the wall by someone inside, then hastily replaced when a car approached the area.

A few minutes later, the bricks were again removed and a man emerged, paused and looked around, and started to walk away. Waiting officers greeted him a short distance from the jail.

Judd was arraigned Monday on the weapons charge and was taken back to the jail in lieu of $7,500 bond, pending his preliminary hearing on that charge.

He was arrested on that charge following an incident in Hickory County. Judd and another man reportedly tried to have a prescription filled by a Hickory County doctor, who thought the prescription was forged. Authorities there gave surrounding counties a description of the pair's car and requested they be checked out.

The car was later stopped in Benton County and Judd was found to be carrying a loaded handgun on his person. The prescription, it was later learned, had been issued by a physician in the Kansas City area.

FBI's Kelley will resign next Jan. 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — Clarence Kelley intends to retire next Jan. 1 as director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Senate was informed on Tuesday.

Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., said during debate on the nomination of Atty. Gen.-designate Griffin Bell that Kelley wrote him of the decision on Monday.

"I have concluded that the letter is a voluntary act on his (Kelley's) part and does reflect what he wants to do with his life and is not in response to pressure from Attorney General-designate Bell or anyone else," Danforth said.

Danforth had criticized Bell last week for announcing that Kelley would soon be replaced as FBI chief. Later, Bell said he did not mean to say that Kelley would be fired.

After reading Kelley's letter and talking to him, Danforth said, he has decided to vote for Bell.

President Carter criticized Kelley during the campaign last year for bad judgment in allowing FBI personnel to do some work on his home but did not say whether he would replace him once he became president.

Accidents do happen

The shattered remains of an overhead door at the west Sedalia fire station, 2606 West 16th, hang Tuesday morning waiting to be replaced. The door rose by an automatic door opener early Tuesday morning as a pumper truck headed to a fire at Interstate Processing Co.

However, as the truck was about half out, the door came back down as the result of a malfunction. Not knowing the door was closing, the firetruck's driver continued out as a hose reel on top the truck tore into the door. The reel had only minor damage.

Stennis convinced draft must return

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee said today he is convinced the nation must return to the draft as a source of military manpower.

"I'm convinced that like it or not we're going to have to go back to the Selective Service system for obtaining some of our men," Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said at the opening of a hearing on U.S. defense posture.

The principal witness was Defense Secretary Harold Brown, who told the committee it would be another month before President Carter will decide what changes to make in the $123 billion, defense budget sent to Congress a week ago by the outgoing Ford administration.

In what he called a statement of "my views of the international environment," Brown told the committee that "the basic issue is not whether the U.S. should have ample military power — we must assure that we do — but how much is enough."

Pentagon sources have disclosed that last Friday, the day he was sworn in as defense secretary, Brown notified senior military officials of tentative plans to reduce their budgets by a total of about $2.8 billion.

President Carter said frequently during the campaign that $5 billion to $7 billion in waste could be cut from the Pentagon budget.

At Armed Services Committee hearings on his nomination, Brown told the panel "it's not going to be easy" to cut the defense budget by that amount.

Acting on the basis of studies and recommendations by President Carter's defense transition team, Brown proposed reductions in more than 30 programs, including slowdowns and stretchouts in some major nuclear weapons programs,

Jury trial only second in 5 years in Municipal Court

A jury trial, only the second one in the past five years, according to City Prosecutor Rob Liston, will be held in Municipal Court Feb. 1.

The request for the trial was made in court Tuesday morning by Larry D. Riggs, Latham, Mo., who is charged with driving while intoxicated. Riggs is being represented by local attorney James Buckley, it was reported.

The trial was authorized by acting Municipal Judge Robert Fritz who, as city counselor, was serving as judge in the absence of Judge Pete Stohr. Stohr is recuperating from knee surgery performed Jan. 15 at Bothwell Hospital.

Liston said Tuesday the Sedalia police department will be responsible for providing 14 jurors for the trial, to be chosen equally from the city's four political wards.

Fire damage estimate set at $10,000

An estimated $10,000 damage was done by fire and water to a storeroom and office at Interstate Processing Co., 601 West 16th, about 1:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Police were first called to the business by an area resident who heard a bell ringing at the company. Upon their arrival, police found smoke throughout the building. Just as the officers called for the fire department, the automatic fire alarm at the Central Fire Station rang for the building.

Heat from the blaze set off two sprinkler system heads which extinguished most of the fire before the arrival of firemen. However, water from the system damaged several cameras and electronic equipment stored nearby.

Fire Chief Willis Jabas credited the sprinkler system with preventing a disaster.

"Had it not been for the sprinkler, it would have been a major fire," he said.

The fire apparently started in what was thought to be an unused floor furnace. A newer furnace was installed on the grating above the floor furnace about three months ago.

Fire officials believe that the floor furnace began heating Monday night and the heat built up until it ignited beams under the floor. The fire spread up a wall but did not ignite the ceiling.

The pumper from the west fire station at 2606 West 16th was delayed in responding to the alarm because the overhead door it was passing under to leave the station came back down on the moving truck. Minor damage was done to a hose reel on top of the truck but the aluminum door and glass were heavily damaged.

City Clerk Ralph Dedrick did not know Tuesday morning if the city's insurance would cover the cost of the door and Jabas did not know how long it would be before it could be replaced.

Carter decides no free rides

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's determination to reduce pump at the White House will force his key aides to join the rest of the world in solving the problem of how to get to work.

Carter decided Monday that no chauffeured limousines will pick up his ranking aides at their homes and take them in style to the office.

Instead, they'll be encouraged to form car pools, which will have special parking privileges at the White House.

In the Ford administration, 13 top aides got rides to work. Under President Nixon, the figure was about 20.

the last time the money will be available."

Details concerning the size of the proposed building were not available Monday, but Davis said the structure would provide a permanent home for v-tech programs in health occupations, business and office training, accounting, business math, building materials, merchandising, mid-management, marketing, agriculture, welding, agricultural mechanics, auto mechanics and building trades. The building also would house new administrative offices and a conference room.

The board took no action on an additional phase of the building plan that provides for electronics and drafting labs and additional space for building trades. Davis said the board will consider that phase if it can secure a $200,000 grant from the Ozark Regional Commission.

In other business, the board passed a motion to waive tuition fees for students aged 60 and above. Those students can take college credit and community service classes for free on a space available basis. Fee-paying students will have priority in enrollment.

The motion also provides for free admission to public events such as musical performances, dramatic presentations and athletic contests. The elderly, however, are responsible for books, supplies and laboratory or special fees.

The board approved establishment of an aviation program in conjunction with Routzong Aviation. The program will consist of individual instruction in both ground control and in-flight training.

A home gardening program, utilizing 10 acres of the college's land, also was approved by the board. The elderly will be given priority in enrollment, and students must provide their own seeds and plants.

The board announced it will hold a public hearing concerning its proposed 1977-78 budget sometime in March.

The resignations of Teresa Rigby, women's basketball coach, and Dan Blackledge, media center director, were accepted.

The board approved the appointment of Robert Schwindt as Media Center director, and Harold Richardson as job developer for the statewide cooperative job placement program.

Youth ordered to stand trial in drug case

One youth was bound over to Circuit Court for trial on charges of possessing a controlled substance while charges against another were reduced to a misdemeanor in Magistrate Court Tuesday morning.

Richard Jarvis, 17, 907 Royal Blvd., charged with possession of PCP, a controlled substance, was bound over for trial. Jarvis was taken to Bothwell Hospital Dec. 27 for treatment of an apparent drug overdose. Sedalia police took a bag of what was then thought to be cocaine to the Highway Patrol laboratory in Jefferson City for analysis. Jarvis allegedly had the bag in his possession when taken to the hospital.

Jarvis is free on $3,500 bond. In other action, felony charges of possessing more than 35 grams of marijuana, a felony, were reduced to a misdemeanor, possession of less than 35 grams, against Bobby D. Parrack, 19, Baldwin, Kan.

Parrack pleaded guilty to the reduced charge Tuesday morning and was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail, given credit for eight days already spent in jail and the balance of the sentence was suspended. Judge Hazel Palmer also placed Parrack on probation for one year.

Parrack was arrested early Nov. 1 by Sedalia police at Clinton Road and James. He allegedly had over 35 grams of marijuana in his possession when arrested. Prosecuting Attorney Mark Kempton could not be reached for comment on the reduction of the charge.

Work safety sessions are scheduled here

Ten representatives from various city offices and institutions will attend a two-hour session on work safety, to be presented at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Municipal Building council chambers.

The meeting, which will be the first of three, two-hour safety sessions, will be conducted by Paul Payne, superintendent of loss control and engineering for Continental Insurance, the company that insures city employees. It will consist of lectures and a film presentation describing how to best implement improved safety standards.

The meeting is being coordinated locally by Ron L. Scott, city safety director. Scott is also employed under the city's community block grant development program as a planner. The meetings are being held, Scott explained, in an effort to minimize the number of injury claims made by city employees. The long-range effect of improved safety programs will be fewer accidents and subsequent lower insurance costs for the city, he added.

Persons scheduled to attend the meeting are: Sam Watson, Municipal Airport; Nelson Lee, building inspection department; Dave Paxton, Crown Hill Cemetery; Ronnie Fimmel, fire department; Don Morton, public library; Bob Brown, Municipal Building; Roscoe Righter, parks and recreation department; David Schick, parking meter department; Rene Dedrick, police department and Lewis Mundy, sanitation department.

Missouri lawmakers focus on lending policies, 'Sunset Law'

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Members of the House Banks and Financial Institutions Committee heard charges Monday night that banks and other Missouri lending institutions are refusing to make mortgage and home improvement loans in some urban areas of St. Louis and Kansas City.

But Robert A. Yeckel, president of the Greater St. Louis Savings and Loan League, called the charges a "vendetta of ill-informed people against our industry."

Missouri legislative action Monday centered around committee hearings on several major bills, including compulsory insurance, governmental review and repeal of the ban on Sunday sales.

Carl Fox of the Missouri Housing Alliance called the practice of refusing loans "redlining," which he said is the refusal of a bank or savings and loan to make loans in an area for other than economic reasons. The result, Fox said, is blight in the urban areas.

A bill before the House would make it illegal for lending institutions to deny real estate loans based on sex, race, religion, national origin or the condition of the dwelling and those in the neighborhood. Yeckel told the committee that the Home Loan Disclosure Act of 1975 requires mortgage lending activity disclosures. Testimony substantiated by the federal disclosure requirement proves savings and loans are not discriminating against home buyers because of race, sex or location of residence.

"Not one savings and loan is under indictment nor has one been convicted of redlining in the St. Louis area," Yeckel said.

Compulsory car insurance was viewed with skepticism by members of the Senate Insurance Committee in other legislative action Monday night.

In questioning before the committee, H.W. Edmiston, director of the Division of Insurance, noted that the public overwhelmingly favors compulsory car insurance.

But, he added, he had not yet taken a position on the bill which would require car owners to purchase liability insurance before being issued license plates.

"It will not stop the uninsured driver from driving," he said. "It is going to force him to weigh the consequences before driving without insurance."

Under the bill, a person who does not have the insurance and is involved in an accident could be found guilty of a misdemeanor. Current law calls for revocation of the person's driver's license.

Supporters of the bill acknowledged that it would not solve all of the problems relating to the uninsured driver.

One of those drawbacks was pointed out by a committee member, Sen. J. B. "Jet" Banks, D-St. Louis.

"I can't really believe there is this type of bill when we have those people who can't afford insurance, but need transportation," Banks said.

Members of the new House Governmental Review Committee considered a proposed "Sunset Law," which would abolish governmental agencies beginning in 1979 unless the legislature specifically voted to continue them.

Backers of the bill said the appropriations committees of both houses are in a position to review agencies. But, they contended, those committees were ineffective.

Members of the committee, which was formed at the request of House Speaker Kenneth Rothman as an alternative to the "Sunset Law" proposals, bombarded backers of the bill with questions about implementing the review.

"I'm concerned about whether we're just creating something that's going to generate a lot more paperwork than substance," said Rep. Larry Mead, R-Columbia. "Won't bureaucrats be spending more time justifying their existence and less time providing the services they're supposed to?"

More hearings on the proposals were scheduled, but some committee members said the bills would not be approved by the committee.

The debate over the ban on Sunday sales in Missouri was renewed Monday as Rep. Phillip Scaglia, D-Kansas City, continued his push for repeal of the so-called "Blue Law."

William Sullivan, an assistant Jackson County prosecutor, told the House Local Governments Committee that it was a waste of time to enforce the ban when other laws had to be enforced.

Officials from Kansas City testified that repealing the ban on Sunday sales would generate another $600,000 in tax revenues for local schools there. Opponents contended the repeal would not increase sales, but would spread available business over seven rather than six days, actually increasing stores' operating costs.

A bill that would allow the St. Louis Board of Election Commissioners to establish voter registration places in public schools and libraries in that city was considered in another committee hearing.

Election officials are frequently busy during peak registration periods, according to Vincent Baumann, director of elections in St. Louis. He told the House Urban Affairs Committee that the bill's purpose was convenience to the voter.

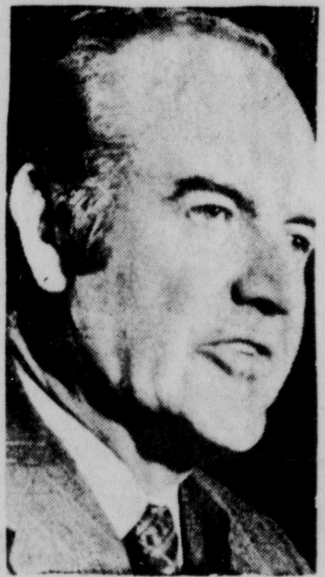

McGovern in classroom; takes potshots at Nixon

NEW YORK (AP) — George McGovern strolled to the podium, drew a deep breath and began addressing his audience on foreign policy. Another Senate speech by the South Dakota Democrat? No, it was Professor McGovern elaborating on his favorite topic, the Vietnam War.

McGovern returned to the college classroom Monday evening after a 21-year hiatus, delivering the first of 14 lectures for his Columbia University course "American Foreign Policy, 1945-1975."

An overflow crowd of about 450 students — many had to sit on the floor — appeared at Altschul Auditorium for the School of International Affairs course, the first McGovern has taught since he left his history and political science professorship at Dakota Wesleyan University in the 1950s.

McGovern, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told his students he would divide the two-hour Monday evening period equally between a prepared lecture and a "no-holds-barred" question-and-answer period.

He also told them he'd grade at least one question on their exams. "I'd like to grade them all, but I can't do that and my work in the Senate."

McGovern said he didn't know how much he would be paid. "I'm not doing it for the money," he said, adding that his weekly stipend would be considerably less than he receives for one-night lectures on the college circuit.

The first barrage of questions was about the Vietnam War, a topic that brought McGovern into the national limelight and pointed him toward the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972.

While answering those questions, the South Dakota senator, dressed in a gray, pin-striped business suit, managed a few verbal digs at the man who defeated him, former President Richard M. Nixon.

To applause, McGovern said that in light of President Carter's pardon of draft evaders, "the ones who conducted the war may be more in need of a pardon."

McGovern said he will deliver lectures on the topics of the Cold War, the growth of communism, the United Nations, the Third World and crises in Cuba, Korea, the Middle East and, naturally, Vietnam.

TWA earns $36.8 million

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Reported net earnings of $36.8 million in 1976 have reversed a two-year period of financial losses for Trans World Airlines, according to the company's preliminary figures.

TWA, the largest employer in Kansas City, lost $86.3 million in 1975, a decline triggered by a slow economy and sharply higher fuel costs.

The 1976 earnings equaled about $2.51 a share for common stock.

A combination of "superior services provided by employees in the airline and the major subsidiaries, a stronger domestic and international economy, as well as stringent expense control" resulted in the turnaround, said L.E. Smart, board chairman.

Smart also cited the airline's on-time performance, improved yield and higher traffic volume.

The airline reported that 47.6 per cent of its available seats were sold in 1976, compared with 44.8 per cent a year ago.

TWA's pretax profit for 1976 was $32 million, compared with a loss of $121.4 million a year ago. Revenues were $2,037 billion, compared with $1,805 billion and expenses were $1,983 billion, compared with $1,887 billion.

Two TWA subsidiaries, Hilton International and Canteen Corporation, also turned in higher profits, the corporation said.

"Let's talk dry cleaning"

By CRAIG WHITE

So many of our friends and customers ask us questions about dry cleaning and clothes care that it occurred to us there might be a great many others who had the same problems and questions but just didn't get around to asking them. We wondered if there might be a way we could discuss some of these subjects like an open forum, and this column is the answer.

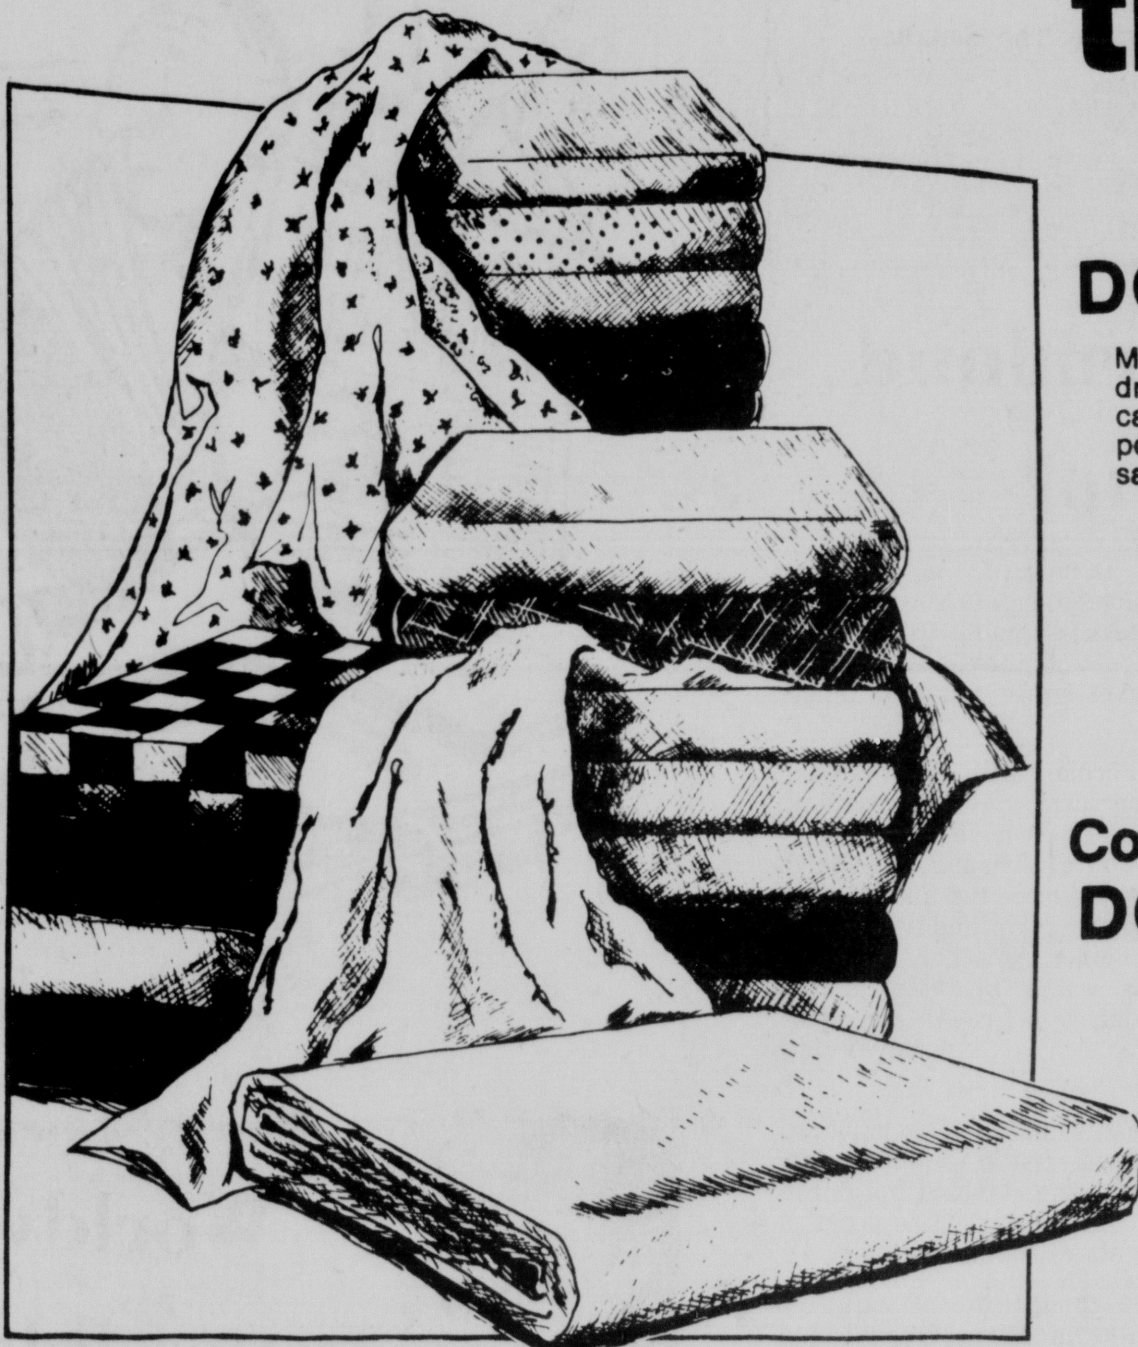

We'll appear here each week with a variety of facts try to offer tips on how to conserve clothes and get more wear out of them, how to keep them looking better, how to select them for service.

We'll also suggest useful facts about such problems as stains and what to do about them...different fabrics, like the new synthetics, and what you should look for in buying and caring for them...cleaning problems with dyes, shrinkage, and so on. Maybe along the way we'll even find space to toss in a few personal comments.

We hope you'll become a regular reader, and a regular customer. You'll find that our cleaning service is fast, thorough and dependable...for everything from the most delicate fabrics to the toughest workclothes.

Other walkers attempted Carter's feat

WASHINGTON—Everyone in Washington is still talking about President and Mrs. Carter's walk from the Capitol to the White House, and Carter watchers are still asking, "Why did he do it?" The obvious answer is, "Because it was there."

Buchwald

This, incidentally, was not the first attempt by someone to walk from the Capitol to the White House. In 1957, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gerard of Tampa, Fla., started out from the door of the Senate building and were making excellent time until they were mugged at 7th St. and Pennsylvania Ave.

In 1961, Ezra Beadleman of Racine, Wis., decided to see if he could make it. Following almost exactly the route the Carters took along Pennsylvania Ave. in the middle of the street, Beadleman was almost halfway there when he was hit by a Washington express bus and thrown through a window of the Post Office Building. He spent three months at George Washington Hospital and upon his release was given 30 days in jail for jaywalking.

This discouraged people for a little while from walking along Pennsylvania Ave. until 1967 when four Vietnam protesters decided to try it. They were making good time until they passed the FBI building. J. Edgar Hoover happened to be looking out his window. He flew into a rage and 200 FBI men surrounded the protesters and charged them with walking by the FBI building without a permit.

In 1970, Gerald Timmons of Chevy Chase, Md., had a few drinks and when he couldn't find a taxi he decided to walk the famous route taken by the Carters. Unfortunately, he chose to do it during rush hour and it took an hour to get across 14th St. and Pennsylvania. This discouraged him and, though he was within a few blocks of his goal, he said the hell with it and stopped into Bassin's Bar where he spent the rest of the evening.

Five Cubans hired by the Committee to Re-elect the President were the next people to try the walk. They made it to the White House without incident where they received orders to continue walking on to the Watergate Headquarters of the Democratic Party where they were captured.

Had they not stopped at the White House to rest, their walk would never have been traced to President Nixon's staff and Nixon might have been the man last Thursday to turn over the keys of 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. to the Carters.

The most interesting attempt to walk from the Capitol was made by Congressman Wilbur Mills and his party who decided to do it in October 1974. Mills got off to a good start, but he took a wrong turn at 8th St. and wound up at the Tidal Basin instead. Since it was two o'clock in the morning and a dark night, he mistakenly thought he was at the White House.

He suggested to one of his party that she take a swim in the White House swimming pool. Much to his chagrin he discovered they weren't at the White House, and everyone knows what this simple mistake cost the Arkansas congressman.

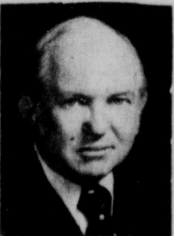

When President Carter decided to take the walk, his aides and the Secret Service tried to talk him out of it. But he was adamant and told them, "I have to show the country I can walk and chew gum at the same time."

Slow and steady on balloons

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — Downstairs in the exhibit hall was a model of the space shuttle. Up one flight was a seminar in space exploration. In another room they were talking of the future of supersonic passenger flight at speeds beyond 3,000 miles per hour.

Kilpatrick

And where was the largest audience that morning? It was sitting attentively in the Virginia Suite of the Sheraton-Park Hotel, listening to panelists discuss the future of the blimp.

The blimp? Well, not exactly. The panel discussion dealt generally with lighter-than-air transportation — with the new generation of airships. Members of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, ordinarily concerned with flight at high speed and fantastic altitude, this morning were absorbed in the status of a vehicle meant to fly at maybe 95 miles per hour, half a mile up.

But under the apparently uneventful surface, a good deal of necessary work has been going on. It is only a matter of time — time and money — before airships are put to both civilian and military use. Their manifest advantages are becoming evident on every occasion that sees the Arabs frown or Ralph Nader blow his nose.

This is because the airship, as Rear Admiral Carl J. Seiberlich observed, begins with two characteristics that no conventional aircraft can match. The airship consumes very little energy; and it makes very little noise. It does not devour scarce petroleum, and it creates no pollution at all.

These advantages, in themselves, might not be enough to justify a heavy public or private investment in the dirigible. Oil still flows, even at OPEC prices, and Americans have grown tolerant of jet fumes and jet noise. But lighter-than-air vehicles have other advantages also.

Among the AIAA panelists was Ralph R. Huston, director of airship research for the Goodyear Aerospace Corporation. He reported on a two-year study undertaken for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Huston's task was to take a long, slow, critical look at airships: Are the new designs technically feasible? In terms of a benefit-to-cost ratio, are the LTAs a wise investment? What are the things good for anyhow?

The NASA study, Huston said, makes it clear that the new designs are technically feasible. Future airships will rely on helium for lift, but they will have supplementary power from rotors that will be used in takeoff and landing. The technology of airframe construction has made significant advances since the days of the Graf Zeppelin and the Hindenberg. Yes, the ships can be built.

Questions of economic feasibility remain under study. The answers depend upon the uses to which an airship would be put. For military and naval uses, the benefits seem evident. There is much to be said for a craft that could silently transport 75 tons of hardware to a jungle clearing. Anti-submarine officers would love to have a ship that could hover for 10 days at sea.

The studies continue. The AIAA panelists are not amateurs, not mere blimp buffs. They are primarily scientists and engineers, but they are visionaries also. Their vision, pedestrian as it may appear, goes to an airship that would fly "low and slow," silent as a cloud, transporting passengers and cargoes where railways and trucks and jets cannot go. In another 18 months, more dramatic developments may occur.

How much farmland can be given up?

For years, farmland has been considered an expendable commodity. Millions of acres of it fall year in and year out to make room for suburban sprawl, highways, airports, reservoirs and the like.

Now that may be changing, reports the Christian Science Monitor. Both the federal government and those in several agricultural states are seriously questioning where the limit is on the amount of farmland that can be given up.

At least 1.5 million acres of prime cropland are lost every year to various causes. The Soil Conservation Service has conducted an inventory of this disappearing resource and reports that high quality farmland diminished by nearly 10 per cent over an eight-year period.

"These losses are mounting up, and over the years have become quite significant," states Paul Bente of the President's Council on Environmental Quality.

Approaches to dealing with this problem include such ideas as giving property tax breaks to landowners who do not develop their farmland, buying up development rights to such land, or otherwise trying to head off the seemingly inevitable process of converting farmland to other uses.

California, still the nation's leading farm state, is studying the creation of a state agricultural resources board that would have the authority to keep prime farmland from being lost to other uses. Local governments would be able to set boundaries of growth and identify farm areas, but only within the state guidelines.

Some 12 million acres of prime farmland exist in California, but this is being gobbled up at the rate of about 120,000 acres a year, state officials report.

The problem is equally familiar in Missouri, with the Meramec Dam controversy being in large part pegged to the loss of productive farmland that would ensue. Closer to home, the Truman Dam will knock out large areas of farm acreage as well.

It's a problem that is going to get increasing attention in coming years.

Worldwide depression possible, says Simon

By JACK ANDERSON and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — Ex-Treasury Secretary William Simon has left his successors with a sober warning about the danger of a worldwide depression.

In private briefings, he reported that the current economic pickup may be a false boom, that the financial stability of the Western world is "shaky" and that an economic setback could precipitate a depression within four years.

As evidence, he delivered to the new administration a set of grim documents that predict declining economic growth and continuing inflation in most industrial countries. The papers are stamped "Confidential" to permit a frank analysis of economic conditions in other nations.

The documents, prepared by Treasury Department experts, raise a number of red flags.

FIRST RED FLAG: Several countries have borrowed so heavily to finance their deficits that they have reached their limit. They can no longer go to the private financial institutions, which have been the source of more than 75 per cent of these loans. Yet there is "no realistic prospect" of replacing the private loan market.

Bible verse

"We must work the works of him who sent me, while it is day; night comes, when no one can work. As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world." — John 9:4, 5.

A confidential analysis warns, therefore, that "the international financial system may face severe strains during 1977." These strains will be "severely aggravated" if oil prices continue to soar.

The world payments pattern, states the document, "strikingly resembles that of 1974, the first year of high oil prices." Even a modest oil increase of 7 or 8 per cent, the document predicts, will send the deficit of the Western industrial countries plunging another $52 billion.

This could be a greater debt than the industrial countries can absorb without a financial breakdown, the analysis suggests.

SECOND RED FLAG: Despite the lagging economic growth, many countries are unwilling or unable "to resist political pressures" for continuing the rapid improvements in living standards.

These countries have relied heavily on external financing "to maintain and increase consumption levels." The documents suggest forcefully that nations cannot go on borrowing to improve living standards. The money can never be paid back, the Treasury experts contend, unless it is invested in production instead of consumption.

THIRD RED FLAG: Several industrial nations, short of money and unable to borrow, will be compelled to adopt "adjustment policies." According to the documents, this should have the effect of slamming the brakes on economic development.

Therefore, "the world economy is likely to experience slower rates of real growth in 1977." The Treasury experts predict the growth rates will be less than their original projections. "For the industrial world..." they write, "we are estimating real growth on the order of 5 and one half to 6 per cent in 1976 but only 3 to 5 per cent in 1977."

FOURTH RED FLAG: Normally, an economic slowdown will force down prices. But the Treasury experts report that "inflation rates continue to remain disturbingly high in the industrial world."

They anticipate a slight drop from a "projected" 9 per cent for 1976 to "perhaps" 8 per cent in 1977. This means people will have to pay higher prices in 1977, without the higher income to meet their bills.

Citing the problem countries, the Treasury reports that Great Britain's financial plight "has worsened progressively during 1976." The exchange rate "has plunged from a March level of $2.02 to a current value of about $1.62" in spite of massive borrowing.

Yet the Treasury is satisfied that the British have taken "important first steps in the right direction to restore confidence in the exchange rate, which mirrors confidence in the government's ability to manage the economy."

The Italian economy also is still staggering from the impact of the oil price increases. Italy's mounting deficits tapered off in 1975. But "this illusion of improvement was achieved," report the Treasury experts, "through a sharp recession."

If the other industrial nations slip into an economic skid, of course, there is no way for the United States to escape the repercussions.

Handwork hints ease the task

By POLLY CRAMER

Handwork of all sorts is enjoying a great revival and each woman seems to have a favorite type — knitting, crochet, needlepoint, crewel work and so on. Many have discovered little tricks that make the job at hand easier or more professional looking.

DEAR POLLY — Before you start to knit with two balls of wool, run the ends through paper straws to prevent tangling as you work.

DEAR POLLY — When knitting it is often necessary to join a new ball of yarn in the middle of a row. To make a neat job, unravel an inch on each end of the pieces to be joined. Moisten both with forefinger and roll the ends together in the palm of your hand. The result is a firm joining with no unsightly knot to mar your knitting. Of course, the same can be used when crocheting.

DEAR POLLY — When mending a knitted garment, place the torn part over a hair brush with the bristles up. They will hold the material and prevent the yarn from stretching as you mend.

DEAR POLLY — I used to pin together the pieces of a sweater I had knitted before sewing them together. By chance I picked up some metal pinch hair clips that were close by. I found that by pinching one on each end of the two pieces to be sewn together and placing a few others in between to ease the fullness I did a better job than with pins that often slipped out.

DEAR POLLY — I love to embroider, but my thread used to get so tangled. Now I wind each color into a small ball and put each of these into an empty pill bottle. A hole is punched in the plastic lid so I can pull out the length needed.

DEAR POLLY — If the cuffs on a wool sweater stretch out of shape, dip just the cuffs in hot water to shrink them back to normal. This would also work on a waistband. Squeeze the purling together when the sweater is stretched out to dry.

DEAR POLLY — To keep the various colors of thread or wool to be used in doing needlepoint or crewel work separated, place the various colors between pages in a magazine. Put in one color, skip a few pages and put in another and so on. Let the ends hang out so colors are easily spotted and removed when needed.

DEAR POLLY — I had my husband take an old bathroom tissue holder and screw the bracket into a wooden block. I put my ball of crochet thread on this and it unrolls easily as I work it. It is as simple to put on as a roll of tissue and can be put wherever it is handy.

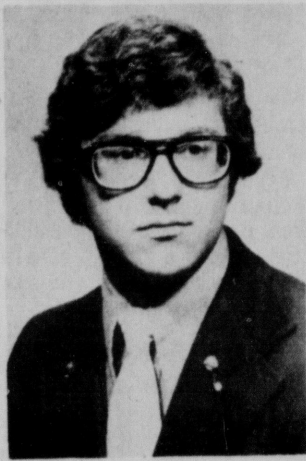

DEAR POLLY — I never knit or purl the first stitch of a row but just slip it off and on to the other needle.

False eyelashes free from fake

By ELLIE GROSSMAN

NEW YORK (NEA) — One day in 1934, Greta Garbo marched into the makeup department at MGM — she was making "Ninotchka" at the time — and said, "I want no more individual false eyelashes."

Then she left and it was up to Evelyn Marshall, her makeup artist, to deal with the situation.

"I went home hysterical thinking how can I make her wispy lashes look good? In those days we were using individual lashes made of real hair. You'd pick one up with a pair of tweezers and attach it to the real lash with spirit gum. The spirit gum was making Garbo's lashes break."

Well, if she needed hair to start with, Ms. Marshall had a headful, so she pulled three strands of her own, dabbed some spirit gum on them so they formed a "cord," and pinned it to the arm of an overstuffed chair.

"Then I looped other pieces of my own hair around this cord using spirit gum to hold them there. I put wave set on them and curled them over-nights in a metal curler. Then I carried them to the studio that way, uncurled them and cut off what I needed for Garbo."

She did that each day, creating new batches of lashes as needed and it was not only satisfactory, she says, "it was the first time anyone had made a strip of lashes you could put on the eyelid like a piece of adhesive tape that could be peeled off."

Garbo was happy, MGM was happy, but when Ms. Marshall's two-year contract expired, "I refused to sign again. When you're doing make-up for a movie company, initially it's interesting but when you have to repeat the same makeup for weeks or months in production..." It's like one too many peanut butter sandwiches.

So she went into business for herself, first as a free-lance makeup artist in advertising, finally as the head of Evelyn Marshall Cosmetics, which you may not have heard of.

She makes seven styles for upper lashes varying in thickness and length, and available in black, brown and black-brown.

"Liza Minnelli and Cher wear the Spiders," she said, indicating long, wispy lashes.

She used to make them all by hand herself, "but now I have a lot of Oriental women who do this piece work for me at home. I examine all the hair from the Koreans at $20 a pound and send it to me."

So she did and he, armed with the Korean hair, ambled into the small country churches where the people left locks of hair on the altars. He'd go over to the priest and say if you let me switch his hair for the Spanish hair on the altar, I'll give you $60 a pound for the poor box.

"The priest would say yes, the poor got help and I got a trunkful of Spanish hair."

Swedish or not, the false eyelashes you buy, she says, "should match your hair color as closely as possible so they look like you grew them. And don't forget that anything you see sitting in a box will look twice as heavy on."

That's why "we mix hair shades. Our eyelashes are never all one solid shade because normal hair isn't. Even in solid black there are variations."

Listen to the advice of the salesgirl, if she'll talk to you, and be aware, finally, of the service false eyelashes can perform.

"You can attract attention into the eyes without screaming makeup and falseness," she says, "and at the same time, you can detract from not so good features."

Try new recipe for better cake

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Recently a reader wrote that a pound cake she baked was "soggy" and asked for a remedy.

One remedy is to try a new recipe! For this we suggest one that is probably as foolproof as a recipe can be. It was contributed by Grace Manney, who has had many years of professional experience in recipe-testing, to a new cookbook that offers great value for what it costs. It's "333 Super Cakes & Cookies" published by Family Circle as the first of their five 1977 "Great Ideas" soft-cover books, on sale for $1.50 in many supermarkets from January through March this year.

Grace's Half-A-Pound Cake sticks to the old-time main ingredients but adds baking powder. Directions are given for flavoring it three extra ways. It has a compact but porous texture; don't expect it to be moist and fluffy. In general, Pound Cakes improve after storage for a few days and we found, on trying Grace's recipe, that her cake is no exception to the rule.

GRACE MANNEY'S HALF-A-POUND CAKE
1/2 pound eggs — 5, separated

Brownies name quilt winner

Mrs. Mary Jane Twenter, Route 4, is the winner of a handmade "Airplane" quilt raffled recently by Brownie Troop 404.

The drawing was held as a month-long project by the 27 girls, ages 6 and 7, to make money for an overnight camping trip next summer.

The troop's leaders are Mrs. Kay Shull, Mrs. Glennada Shumake and Mrs. Beverly Haase.

Half-a-pound Cake

There are several ways its flavoring may be changed. (NEA)

1/2 pound butter (2 sticks) — 1 cup
1/2 pound sugar — 1 cup
1/2 pound cake flour — 2 1/4 cups
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
2 teaspoons vanilla

1. Beat egg whites until they hold soft peaks in small bowl of electric mixer at high speed; reserve.

2. Beat butter and sugar until fluffy in large bowl of mixer at high speed.

3. Beat egg yolks until thick in a second small bowl with mixer at high speed; beat into butter mixture until thick and light.

4. Sift flour and baking powder over butter mixture; stir in with a wire whip; fold in egg whites and vanilla until well blended; pour into a buttered 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan.

5. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees) 1 hour, 15 minutes, or until cake is firm to the touch. Cool in pan on wire rack 10 minutes; loosen around edges with a spatula; cool completely on wire rack. Sprinkle with 10X sugar before serving, if you wish.

Suggested Variations: You can make 3 other cakes with this recipe, simply by adding a different ingredient to the batter of each. For Spice Pound Cake, stir in 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg; for Citrus Pound Cake, stir in 2 tablespoons orange rind or 2 teaspoons lemon rind; for Citron Pound Cake, stir in 1-3rd cup finely chopped candied citron and 1/2 teaspoon lemon extract. Hearing Loss is not a Sign of Old Age

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

True, all hearing problems are not alike...and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid. But audiologists report that many can. So, send for this non-operating model now. Wear it in the privacy of your own home to see how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 5925, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria St., Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Raiders' Stabler named winner of Hickok award

NEW YORK (AP) — Football player Ken Stabler has made the biggest catch of his career — the bejeweled Hickok belt.

The brilliant quarterback who led the Oakland Raiders to the Super Bowl championship earlier this month was named the 1976 Hickok Professional Athlete of the Year Monday.

Stabler's personal victory was a lot tougher than the Raiders' 32-14 rout of the Minnesota Vikings in Super Bowl XI on Jan. 9 in Pasadena, Calif. This year's Hickok voting by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters was one of the most wide-open in the 27-year history of the prestigious award.

The 32-year-old Stabler, the first Hickok recipient who failed to win any of the 12 monthly competitions, received 31 first-place votes and 135 points. It gave him a seven-point margin over Joe Morgan, the second baseman of the world champion Cincinnati Reds. Morgan, who also failed to win a monthly competition, received 28 first-place votes and 128 points.

Stabler led the Raiders to a 13-1 regular-season record as the top passer in the National Football League. The bearded southpaw quarterback completed 194 passes in 291 attempts for a 66.7 percentage, 2,737 yards and 27 touchdowns. He then guided Oakland to playoff victories over New England and Pittsburgh before the rousing Super Bowl triumph.

Tennis star Chris Evert became the highest-placed woman in Hickok history, receiving 24 first-place votes and 108½ points while golfer Judy Rankin got one first-place vote worth five points. The only other two women ever to get Hickok votes were the late Babe Didrikson Zaharias, a golfer, who got a first-place vote and 12 points in 1950, and tennis player

S-C swimmers win two meets

The Smith-Cotton swim team ran its record to 5-1 with a pair of victories in a double dual meet Monday afternoon.

In the meet that had the Tigers swimming against both Springfield Hillcrest and Springfield Central, S-C beat Hillcrest 116-42, and whipped Central 127-57.

Smith-Cotton travels to Mexico, Mo., Thursday afternoon for a meet against Mexico Military Academy.

Smithton scores double victory

SMITHTON — Smithton scored a sweep of Lincoln in a junior varsity boys and varsity girls doubleheader here Monday.

The boys' junior varsity, led by Robby Lamm's 13 points and Gene Williams 10, outscored Lincoln 25-16.

In the girls game, Smithton won 25-13. Ranell Hoehns scored 12 for Smithton, and Lisa Cramer chipped in six for Lincoln.

Kenny Stabler

Billie Jean King, who got one point in 1974.

Rookie pitcher Mark Fidrych finished fourth with 15 first-place ballots and 92 points; Jimmy Connors, the Wimbledon and U.S. Open tennis champion, was next with 14 and 72½, and running back O.J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills was sixth with nine and 69.

Rounding out the top 10 were catcher Johnny Bench of Cincinnati, pitcher Randy Jones of San Diego, quarterback Bert Jones of Baltimore and U.S. Open golf champion Jerry Pate.

A record total of 24 athletes received first-place votes, and a total of 49 received points. Stabler will receive the Hickok Belt, valued at upwards of $20,000, at the 42nd annual dinner of the Touchdown Club of Washington next Saturday night in the nation's capital.

Ask the Kansas City Royals' Hal McRae how he felt after Chris Chambliss of the New York Yankees hit a ninth-inning home run to defeat the Royals in the American League Playoffs, and you might expect him to say disappointed. Or sad. Maybe even crushed.

McRae's comment when asked that question Monday afternoon was, "Scared to death."

McRae and teammate Paul Splittorff were in town as part of the Royals' Goodwill Caravan, and the question came up during a special assembly at Sacred Heart High School.

"I might have felt worse if it hadn't been for the fans. I kind of forgot about the loss, while just trying to get off the field," McRae said.

McRae had the unpleasant distinction of being in right field for the Royals when Chambliss cranked out the one that won it, and sent a mob of Yankee fans swarming over the walls, over the field, and, worst of all, over the players.

Chambliss himself was knocked down while trying to round the bases. One fan claimed McRae's hat as a souvenir, but he managed to hold on to his glove, the thing he was most concerned about — next to his life.

The pair of athletes made two appearances in Sedalia, one at the assembly and earlier at a Rotary Club luncheon. At both affairs, time ran out before the questions.

Splittorff said that, had the Royals won the playoff series, they would have performed better in the World Series than did the Yankees, who were routed in four straight by the Cincinnati Reds.

Could they have won it all?

"If we had played real well," Splittorff said. "We would have had to play a perfect series, and probably, the Reds would have had to make some mistakes."

A topic on many minds was the elimination of baseball's reserve clause. It was the demise of that clause, that tied a player to one team until traded or released, that set off the free agent bidding war.

Both McRae and Splittorff said they think it is a good move, with McRae saying it gives the player a little leverage. It gives him a chance to make a change if he is unhappy with his team or his contract.

Splittorff pointed out that many of the problems between clubs could be viewed as a "family affair."

"I think it's fair because the owners have put it on themselves," he said. "Baseball's problems are all internal."

Splittorff suggested that a strong commissioner could serve to keep the lid on things.

The biggest immediate effect for the Royals, who signed no free agents, is the change it could make in one of their rivals, the California Angels. The Angels spent freely in the free agent market, signing such blue-chippers as Gene Tenace, Bobby Grich and Don Baylor.

"They helped themselves a lot," Splittorff said. "But they had to. They weren't very strong before."

And despite the improved Angels, both players agreed that the Royals' chances of repeating as Western Division champs look good. The Royals will be counting on both men to provide keys to a repeat.

McRae has been the Royals' most consistent hitter over the past three seasons. And as a designated hitter, his normal position, he has been the best. His .313 career designated hitting average is tops.

McRae has hit over .300 for the past three seasons, for a .316 average in that span.

In 1976, he batted .332, losing the league batting title to teammate George Brett on the last day of the season. In that final game, a controversial play by Minnesota outfielder Steve Brye made the difference.

Brye let drop an apparently easy fly ball by Brett. Brye said he misjudged the ball, McRae claimed the misplay was deliberate, and said that race (McRae is black, Brye and Brett white) played a role.

McRae apparently has not changed his opinion, but time has cooled his emotions some. "I don't have any hard feelings. I don't hold a grudge against him."

"I think it's unfortunate for him. It's something he will have to live with. It's something that's going to affect him more than it hurts me. I just hope he doesn't catch a lot of heat for what he did."

As for Splittorff, the Royals are hoping he will fulfill what has been more promise than production.

A veteran of seven seasons with the Royals, he holds many career pitching records for the team, including most victories, starts, innings pitched and shutouts.

Never the less, he has never put together a full season in which he was both effective and healthy.

In his best year, 1973, he became the first Royal hurler to record 20 wins, finishing at 20-11. But a pulled back muscle cost him two weeks in the middle of the season, and he did not get his 20th win until his last start of the season.

The Royals came close in 1976, and in 1977 they hope to do better. Perhaps it is appropriate that they open their home season on April 11 against — who else — the New York Yankees.

Short road to top for Vols

By The Associated Press

The Tennessee Volunteers have taken the most direct route into The Associated Press' Top Ten — by way of Kentucky and Alabama.

The Volunteers were nowhere a couple of weeks ago, but victories over their highly regarded colleagues in The Southeastern Conference have moved them all the way up to No. 7.

Tennessee, No. 14 last week after an upset victory over Kentucky, moved up seven more spots after Saturday night's 102-93 decision over Alabama. The victory followed an 86-72 decision over Mississippi and gave Tennessee a 7-0 record and first place in the SEC.

Michigan was another team to make progress in the AP poll, not to mention its own conference, climbing up three places to No. 2 after beating three Big Ten rivals — Iowa, Illinois and Purdue.

A nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters Monday gave the Wolverines three first-place votes and a total of 895 points, 154 behind front-running San Francisco.

The Dons held onto first place after pulling in 47 first-place ballots and 1,049 points. The nation's top-ranked team did not play an official game last week, although the Dons were beaten 104-85 in an exhibition game with Athletics In Action.

Alabama, while losing its only game of the week to Tennessee, did not lose its hold on the No. 3 spot in the poll. The Crimson Tide collected 705 points in the voting.

North Carolina was another team that wasn't hurt in the polls by losing. The Tar Heels split a pair of games, but nevertheless picked up four first-place votes and a total of 658 points.

Nevada-Las Vegas, the only other team to receive a No. 1 vote, moved up two spots to No. 5 following victories over California-Santa Barbara and Pepperdine.

Kentucky remained No. 6 after victories over Florida and LSU. UCLA jumped two spots to No. 8 after a victory over Notre Dame. Marquette also defeated Notre Dame — and beat Drake and Cincinnati Xavier as well — but fell back one berth to ninth. Wake Forest also lost one spot, rounding out the Top Ten, despite victories over Duke and North Carolina-Charlotte.

In the Second Ten, Louisville moved up one place to No. 11, followed by Cincinnati. Minnesota fell two slots to 13th, Providence edged up one to No. 14, Arkansas jumped up two to 15th, Arizona stayed No. 16, Syracuse scrambled three spots up to 17th, Purdue moved up one to No. 18, Clemson moved into No. 19 and Memphis State fell two to 20th.

Clemson replaced Maryland in the Top Twenty after the Terrapins, 13th a week ago, lost Clemson and North Carolina.

Michigan head coach not shy about acknowledging talents

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

"Why are we 14-1?" asked Michigan basketball Coach Johnny Orr.

"Darned good coaching," replied Michigan basketball Coach Johnny Orr.

Orr's latest effort was a 92-81 Big Ten Conference victory over Ohio State Monday night — at Columbus, Ohio, no less.

With 2:14 to go in the second half, Orr found his second-ranked Wolverines trailing 81-80. The natives were howling for an upset by the Buckeyes, so it was time for some of that good coaching.

"We showed real poise when the crowd went wild," Orr said. "We brought it right back to them."

Michigan brought it back, thanks to their three-guard offense of Steve Grout, Ricky Green and Dave Baxter.

"Our three-guard offense gave us good defense," said Orr, in an understatement.

The Wolverines held Ohio State scoreless from that point on while hitting 12 points themselves — six by Baxter and five by center Phil Hubbard — clinching their seventh straight Big Ten victory. Hubbard finished with 17 points and Baxter, a reserve, had 16.

Ten, No. 3 Alabama squeaked past Georgia 78-74 in overtime, No. 6 Kentucky trounced Mississippi 100-73, and No. 7 Tennessee beat Mississippi State 68-59, all in Southeastern Conference games.

Among the Second Ten, No. 11 Louisville routed Long Island 107-68, No. 13 Minnesota beat Michigan State 75-70, No. 14 Providence trounced Canisius 86-69, No. 15 Arkansas defeated Texas A&M 72-58, No. 17 Syracuse topped Buffalo 91-71, and No. 18 Purdue beat Wisconsin 81-71.

The "Bernie and Ernie Show" helped Tennessee raise its SEC record to 8-0 and kept the Vols 1½ games ahead of Kentucky and Alabama, each 6-1.

Bernard King, the SEC scoring leader, scored 27 points and Ernie Grunfeld added 24 as Tennessee posted its 12th straight victory and raised its record to 14-2.

Alabama needed five points in overtime from reserve Don Bowerman to sneak past Georgia, which sent the game into the extra period on a layup by Charley Dorsey with one second left in regulation.

Kentucky moved out from a 24-24 tie midway through the first half and led by as many as 16 points before intermission, then pulled ahead by 27 3½ minutes into the second half in raising its record to 13-2. Jack Givens topped six Wildcats in double figures with 19 points.

Darrell Griffith, a 6-foot-4 freshman reserve, scored 20 points, leading Louisville, 13-2, to its 10th victory in a row, over outmanned LIU.

Michael Thompson and Ray Williams combined for 47 points for Minnesota, 13-1 and 4-1 in the Big Ten after its victory over Michigan State.

Providence, 15-2, moved to a 13-point lead midway through the first half and coasted past Canisius, 1-14. Bruce Campbell topped Providence with 22 points.

Marvin Delph scored 16 points in the second half and 22 over-all for Arkansas, 15-1, which is unbeaten in six Southwest Conference games.

Syracuse, 15-2, trailed 45-42 at halftime, but pulled away from Buffalo with a 14-burst in the second half. Dale Shackelford topped the Orangemen with 21 points.

Season already too long

Biletnikoff critical of Pro Bowl

NEW YORK (AP) — Super Bowl hero Fred Biletnikoff considers the Pro Bowl a tail to the pro football season that should be either retooled or chopped off completely.

"The season is too long and demanding already," the rangy wide receiver of the champion Oakland Raiders said. "If the Pro Bowl must continue I think two changes should be made:

"One, the teams should be picked by the players alone, not the coaches; two, the prize money should be increased to make playing in the game worthwhile.

"As it is, players who don't qualify for the playoffs are compelled to keep in shape for an extra month. The players' purse is ridiculous. When I played in Miami, it cost me $800 out of my pocket."

Biletnikoff said if the team selections were confined to the players there would be a greater number of younger men chosen.

"The inclination has been," he added, "to keep bringing back the same old names because they are better known to the public. From experience, I have found that most players are tired of football by the time they reach the game. They just go through the motions. None wants to take a chance on getting hurt."

He defended those players who have been criticized for not competing once picked. Fran Tarkenton, quarterback of Minnesota's beaten Super Bowl Vikings, came in for particular abuse this year for begging off. "It's unfair," Bilet-nikoff said. "Nobody should feel bound to play."

The current Pro Bowl pay scale is $2,000 for each man on the winning team, $1,500 for the losers. The game is anticlimactic although it produces revenue for the players' pension fund.

"Players on the winning team should get at least as much as the losers of the Super Bowl," Biletnikoff insisted, "and those who lose rewarded proportionately." That would fix the pay scale at around $7,500, the Super Bowl losers' share, and $5,000.

The sure fingered veteran out of Erie, Pa., and Florida State University was in New York Monday to make some shirt commercials with Joe Namath and to be anointed again by Sport Magazine as the Most Valuable Player of the 1977 Super Bowl.

In the Super Bowl, Biletnikoff caught four passes for 79 yards, three receptions leading to touchdowns in the 32-14 rout of the Vikings.

A long drink of water at 6-foot-1 and 190 pounds with the speed of a skinny mule, Biletnikoff developed his raw skills by bouncing the odd-shaped football off garage walls, practicing deft cuts and second-base slides and massaging his hands with something like molasses.

Now at age 33, with 12 years' pro experience, the game's most underrated receiver has adjusted his sights.

"Two more years," he said, looking at his pretty wife, Jennifer, "and that's it."

Hockey all-stars out to have a good time

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Scotty Bowman, coach of the Montreal Canadiens, doesn't mind an extra road trip in a long season just to coach an exhibition game.

"If you get to coach this game," he said Monday, "it means you were in the Stanley Cup finals the year before."

The game to which he referred is tonight's 30th National Hockey League All-Star game, where Bowman will guide a power-packed lineup from the Prince of Wales Conference against a squad of stars from the Clarence Campbell Conference.

Bowman thinks his cheerful philosophy regarding the game will extend to his players, among whom are six of his Canadiens. His netminder, Ken Dryden, will start for the Wales squad, which has scored easy victories in the two seasons since the contest was given a conference format.

"I could find you guys who think this game is a drain. But once the game starts, they'll want to win just as much as any other time," Bowman said.

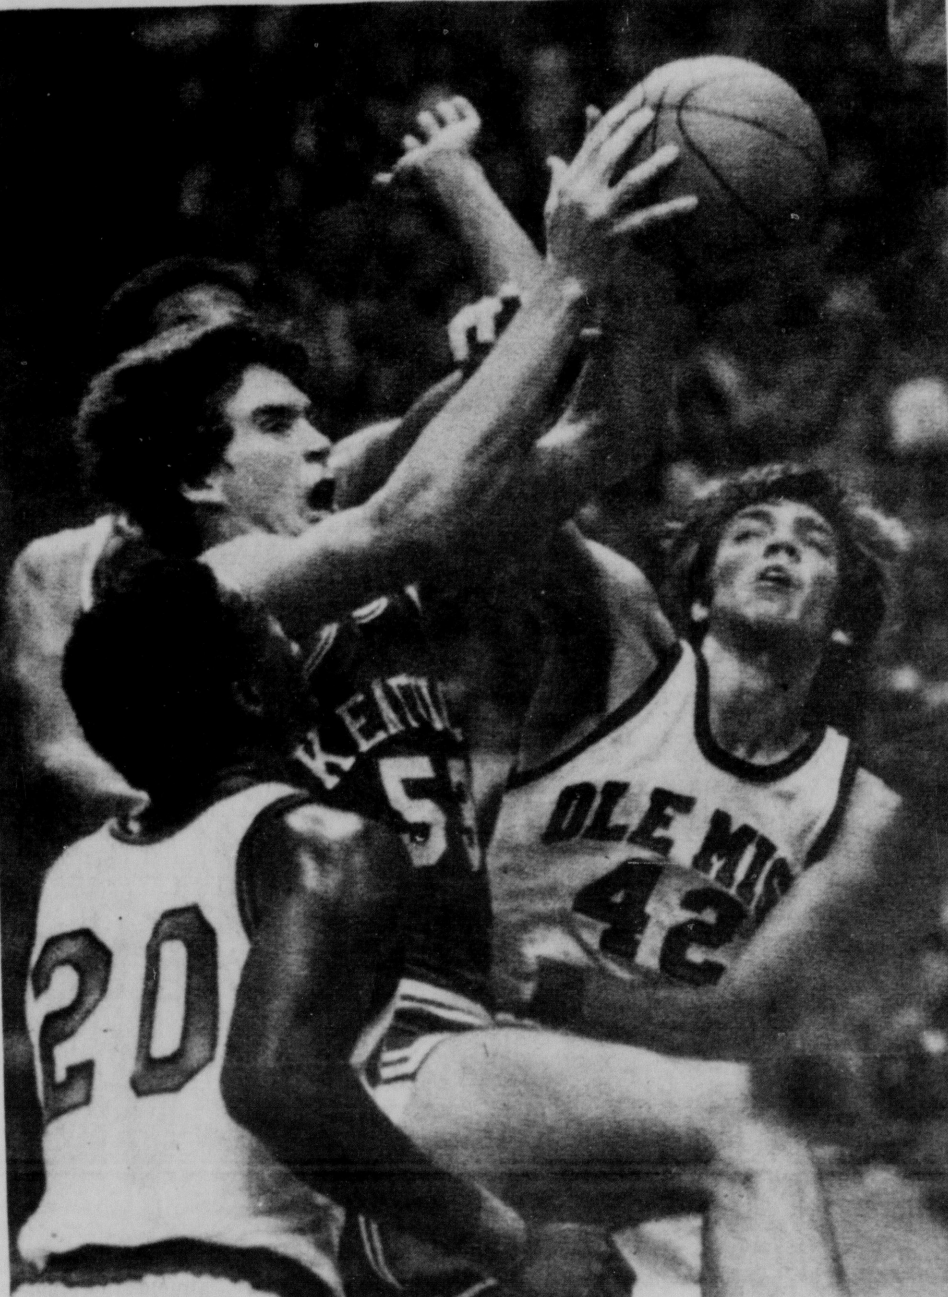

Coach Fred Shero of the Philadelphia Flyers agreed. "I found out in the last two years, and I couldn't believe it, how happy the players are to be here and how hard they work," said Shero, who is looking to break a two-game losing streak in tonight's competition.

"You won't see players clubbing each other to death," he added, "but they'll be out there trying hard, that's for sure."

Bowman announced his line combinations for the contest while Shero deferred his decision on the matter until after the pre-game practice.

Robinson was shifted to forward because a defenseman, Ian Turnbull, replaced injured center Darryl Sittler of Toronto. Gainey also is a substitution. He replaced teammate Steve Shutt because the Montreal left wing stayed home to await the delivery of his wife's first baby.

Surrounded

Kentucky's Rick Robey finds the going rough as he is hemmed in by Walter Actwood, 20, John Stroud, 42, and an unidentified Mississippi player.

Stroud led all scorers in the Monday night game with 22, but Kentucky came out on top in the contest 100-73.

Few new leaders in NAIA stats

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Husson College in Maine remains at the top of the team scoring offense in this week's National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics statistics.

Shooting 60 per cent from the field, Husson has scored an average of 102.3 points per game.

Minnesota-Morris still dominates the team defensive field, allowing only 54.0 points per game with Mount Marty College in South Dakota holding on to second place with 60.8.

Greg Logan, a 6-3 junior center from Columbia College of Missouri, led individual rebounders average this week, hiking his average to 19.3 in nine games. Houghton College in New York had its 6-10 freshman, Brian Rhodes, move into second in the rebounding race with 18.1.

Missouri had another leader with Culver-Stockton's John Ernst the top individual free thrower. For the first time, Ernst qualified with a perfect 36-for-36 in eleven games. Last week's leader, Steve Coon, of Chadron State in Nebraska dropped to sixth at 90.3 per cent, while Bill Zych of Manchester College in Indiana moved up to second at 93.3.

Rickey Sutton of Lyndon State in Vermont and Steve Peknik of Windham College, also in Vermont, remained the top individual scorers this week with averages of 38.9 and 31.4.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

One of the best defenses of the recent tournament was put up by Dr. John Fisher and Charles Gabriel of Dallas. Charles' double of the two-heart overall was for takeout in line with modern expert practice which differs from standard bidding in this respect. John decided to convert the double to business since he could not bid either black suit and felt that even a one-trick penalty would mean a very good score. Charles opened the king of spades and shifted to the 10 of diamonds. John played the jack. South took his ace and promptly led a trump to John's ace. Dr. Fisher proceeded to analyze the possibilities of the hand thoroughly and finally cashed his ace of clubs. Then he led the queen of diamonds. South followed and now it was Gabriel's turn to think. Finally he followed the pattern of the angel Gabriel and played a trump to gain the lead. A club was led and ruffed, after which another diamond ruff and club ruff left declarer two tricks down on a contract he would have made if the defense had slipped.

A California reader wants to know what our opening bid is with: ♠ A Q 10 J 6 5 ♦ A J 10 9 ♣ K 10 4. We open one notrump. Although the hand only has 15 high-card points the three 10s and the one nine are worth an extra point. (Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. Ann Landers

Sloppy person has low opinion

Dear Ann: Knowing you have so many serious problems to deal with, I am reluctant to lay this one on you, but my son and I are having a disagreement and we need an outside opinion.

I take the position that the way a person dresses tells a great deal about him. My son, who is 17, says clothes are mere trappings and not important.

I should tell you that this young man has given up wearing underwear because "it's a drag." Am I wrong when I say underwear is essential for reasons of cleanliness?

What are your thoughts on this subject? My son has agreed to abide by your decision and so have I. — Minor Hassle With A Big Potential

Dear M.H. with Big Pot.: The way people dress does indeed make a statement. It can say, "I look good enough for ME. If it doesn't meet your standards, I couldn't care less."

Or it can say, "I want to make as favorable an impression as possible because I DO care what you think of me."

It's a fairly safe bet that a sloppy, unkempt person has a low opinion of himself. He is invariably lazy and unmotivated. As for your 17-year-old son going without underwear — the clod should be told to clean up his act.

Dear Ann: I am in desperate need of advice. Mary (made-up name) and I have been best friends since the second grade. We are 16 now. Her mom and dad always treated me like a daughter. My folks feel the same way about her.

Last night Mary's dad drove me home and propositioned me. He said he wanted to teach me to make love the right way and not have some high school kid "spoil it all" by being clumsy because he doesn't know what he was doing.

This man is one year younger than my dad. I was so upset I shook like a leaf and ran straight to my room when I got home so I wouldn't have to face my parents.

The problem is, now I can't look at Mary without seeing her dad. Should I tell her what happened? How can I avoid being alone with that man? Please help me. — Superior, Wis. Dilemma

Dear Dill: Please don't tell Mary. She would be devastated.

Avoid being alone with "that man" again — no matter what. If he offers to drive you home again, insist that Mary come along for the ride.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a divorced woman with a 13-year-old son. I don't know if I have a problem or not. Please tell me.

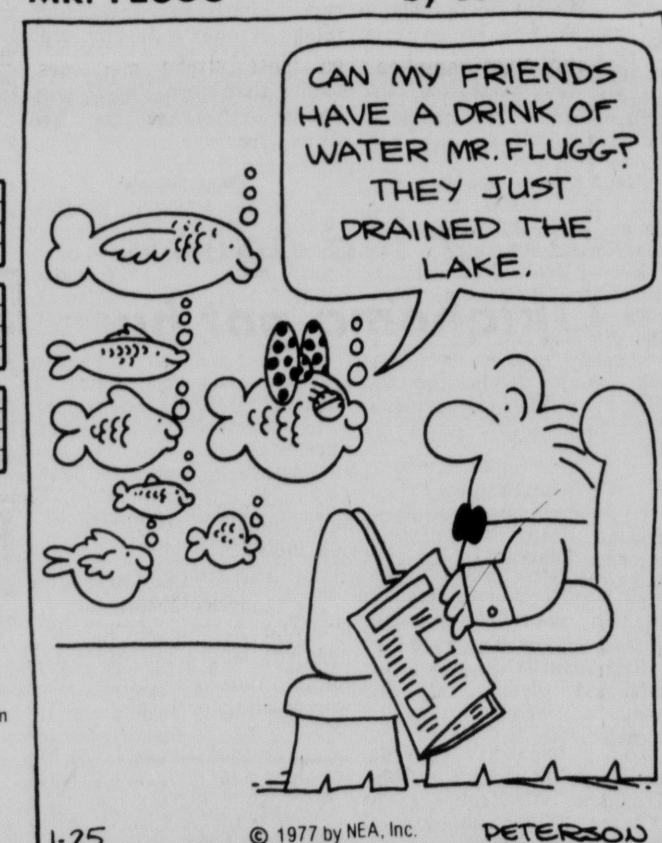

Yesterday I came home and found my son seated at my dressing table. He was plucking his eyebrows. I wouldn't have thought anything of it had he been pulling out a few stray hairs but he had one eyebrow down to a fine line — like a girl's. I didn't say a word — just took over the job and finished the other eyebrow.

I've talked to a few of my friends about this and they say in this day and age it means nothing. What do you say? — Uneasy In Florida

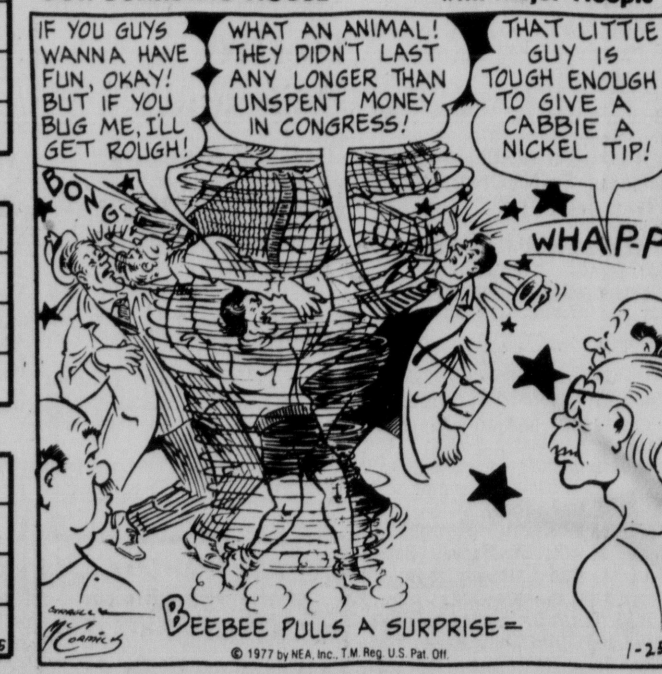

Dear Uneasy: Keep your eye on the lad. If he continues to pluck his eyebrows "like a girl's" and develops a fondness for your makeup or clothes, you'd better get him to a counselor.

Winter tourists

By ERMA BOMBECK

I've never been to Miami in the winter, but as a person eaten up with envy and fed up with postcards from friends, I have a mental picture of the average winter tourists.

They hit town, run down to the gift shop, buy 200 postcards, unpack their phone book from home, and write

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Opinions differ on blood pressure

Dear Dr. Lamb — People and even doctors have different opinions about high blood pressure. I heard on Hollywood Squares that low blood pressure is better than normal blood pressure. I don't believe that. What could be better than normal? I heard we can have as much as 100 plus your age. I am 69 and I think 169 would be too high. I read in a German book in 1955 that for people 60 or over, 140 over 100 is normal. What is your opinion, Dr. Larry? What should my blood pressure be? Here in Montana it is 160 over 80 but in the winter in Arizona it is 135 over 80 or 90.

Dear Reader — Yes, there are a lot of different statements about normal blood pressure. The confusion begins with the meaning of the word normal. It is often used in a statistical sense to mean "most common." However, something that is "most common" may not be optimal or even desirable. It is "most common" to have heart disease in our society but most people would prefer not to be normal in that regard. They would rather be optimal in terms of health and not have a heart attack or a stroke.

In general it is said that any pressure below 140 over 90 is normal. However, we know from population studies that even lower blood pressure is associated with a lower incidence of fatty cholesterol deposits in arteries and hence a lower rate of heart attacks, strokes and other complications of artery disease. Individuals with blood pressure of 100 over 60 are less prone to heart disease or strokes. Yet these low pressures are not "most common." I should mention that we do accept pressures of 90 over 60 as still within the normal range.

I agree that elevated pressure should be treated in the interest of preventing strokes and heart attacks. However, I do not believe in being heroic about it unless the pressure is truly significantly beyond the normal range of 140 over 90. With modest elevations I am convinced that the best form of treatment in most cases is weight reduction. Even if a person has only a few pounds of excess fat around the waist these pounds can make the difference.

Beyond adequate weight control — that means getting rid of ALL the fat — the next step is the use of water pills, those that eliminate excess salt. And, of course, the person should limit salt intake.

More stringent measures that require powerful medicines should not be used until weight control, diet, salt restriction and water pills have been used to the fullest.

Some of the more powerful medicines used to treat blood pressure have powerful side effects, including causing depression, drowsiness, loss of sexual capacity and other changes. The best way to avoid these risks is to do first things first. That means getting rid of your excess fat before the doctor starts you on such medicines. Frankly I think too much reliance is put on these strong medicines rather than correcting living habits that cause the high blood pressure in the first place. (NEA) steadily for the next two weeks.

Most of them don't have time to eat, walk on the beach, soak up the sun, fish, or for that matter sleep. They just sit there penning one miserable greeting after another to make the folks back home feel rotten.

There are some of you out there who might become very defensive about this ritual and say, "But they're my friends." Believe me when I tell you that a "friend" would never write, "My nose is peeling something terrible," on the very day you ran into a frozen line of laundry and required stitches when a pair of pants hose clipped you above the eye.

I have also noted with some bitterness that although the postal service is inclined to be a little raggy from time to time (a friend of mine just received his draft notice signed by Richard M. Nixon), the postcards from Florida showing citrus and bikinis always get through within hours of the time they are mailed.

My husband came back from the mailbox yesterday with a card from our good friends, Bob and Donna.

"Don't tell me," I said, glancing at the card. "It's a porpoise sitting on Donna's lap singing, 'I Can't Give You Anything But Love.'"

"Why are you so jealous?" "Who's jealous? I'm always happy when someone can borrow money for a trip in the winter they can't even afford in the summer. As I've always said, 'The family that plays together pays for it all year long.' So, go ahead. Read it to me."

"First, it's not a card from Florida. It's from Honolulu and has a big palm tree and a bunch of hula dancers under it."

"I'm going to be sick. I hope her clothes are permanently tainted with pineapple."

"She writes, 'It's been raining for six days. Bob has a cold. Don Ho is on vacation.'"

"You really know who your friends are by the ones who write," I smiled.

2 Royals players speak here

Pitcher Paul Splittorff and designated hitter-outfielder Hal McRae of the Kansas City Royals learned that Sedalia Rotarians are fairly good students of the game by the questions tossed to them on Monday noon at the regular meeting of the Sedalia Rotary Club at Ramada Inn.

Jimmie Glenn, KDRO announcer, introduced the two Royals players and explained they would answer questions. Forty minutes later Rotarians were still asking and the players were still fielding questions when Larry McRoy, club president, rang the bell and explained the meeting had already run overtime.

Both players, who were accompanied by Bryan Burns, director of special promotions for the Royals, agreed that the Royals would be aiming for top position in the American League Western Division in the coming season and expressed the hope they could put it all together and be a participant in the World Series.

At the conclusion of the program, awards of two tickets to see the Royals play, and several mugs and holders were made to club members asking what the players considered to be the best questions.

In other club activities, Stanley Cox, Sedalia attorney, was installed as a new member of the club by McRoy and Lawrence Barnett.

Guests for the meeting were

BLENDER HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

Yield: 1 cup
Mrs. John Baker
1201 Spice Street
Sedalia, Missouri

½ cup butter margarine
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 egg yolks
¼ teaspoon prepared mustard

Heat butter in saucepan until bubbly, but not browned. Put egg yolks, lemon juice, salt, white pepper and mustard in blender container; cover and run on low speed about 5 seconds. While continuing to run blender, add butter in slow, steady stream until blades are covered; turn to high speed and add remaining butter slowly. Serve immediately on cooked vegetables or fish.

PLEASE NOTE:

Be sure all ingredient measurements for the recipe or recipes are correct. Please type or print plainly and mail to:

Informer led agents to Oklahoma pot bust

ARDMORE, Okla. (AP) — A U.S. customs agent testified at a preliminary hearing here Monday that a paid informer helped lead to the arrest of two pilots here in a large seizure of marijuana.

But agent Scott Eshelman of Tucson, Ariz., refused defense attorneys' demands that he name the informer, saying the informer's life would be in jeopardy.

District Court Judge Dixie Colbert of Sulphur took the defense demands for the identity under advisement.

A total of 10 persons are charged with possession of marijuana with intent to distribute.

The two pilots are Jerry Lee Wilson, 33, Las Vegas, Nev., and James Richard Joyce, 31, Kansas City.

Also charged were Allen Sanchez, 19, Los Angeles; Daniel Renteria, 21, Michael S. Oakies, 33, and Neal

Nichols, 25, all of El Paso, Tex.; James B. Widner, 22, Pheonix; James Patterson, 27, Englewood, Colo.; William A. Painter, 28, Becket, Mass., and Donald F. Haynes, 24, Sunland Park, N.M.

The ten were arrested late last year when a DC4 landed here with several tons of marijuana aboard. Authorities were waiting for the plane.

Joplin man faces charges in death

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — Clyde Dana Craig, 36, of Joplin, has been charged with capital murder in connection with the stabbing death last fall of Helen Poindexter of nearby Webb City.

Craig was arrested Monday. He had been questioned five days after Mrs. Poindexter's body was found in October but was released.

The body of Mrs. Poindexter, who had been beaten and stabbed in the abdomen, was discovered in bed by her 16-year-old daughter.
